

Award-Winning News Anchor Julie Chapman Casts Spell with Bewitching Book Chapman's Poetry Celebrates Halloween's Magical Moments

AVAILABLE NOW

Albany, N.Y. 2021 - Award-winning broadcast journalist Julie Chapman is the author of the new children's book Witches, Bats, and Mystical Cats - Spooktacular Rhymes for Halloween Time. Saratoga Springs Publishing hails it "a truly unique and special endeavour that will enchant readers."

Chapman, a life-long poet, has always loved Halloween and believes it can be the most imaginative time in a child's life. Halloween encourages you to visualize and create, and allows you to escape into a world full of endless possibilities. As society changes, there's growing concern about the diminishing of this important holiday and the benefits it can bring to a child's development.

Through whimsical rhymes, Chapman's Witches, Bats, and Mystical Cats celebrates this spellbinding season and the adventures that await us. Some poems tell chilling tales of haunted houses, old cemeteries, and mysterious legends. Others detail the fun side that celebrates the beauty of fall, the make-believe, and the colorful candies. There's even a magical spell activity that accompanies the book.

Julie Chapman is an award-winning broadcast journalist who is well-known throughout much of upstate New York. She is the longest-running morning anchor in New York's capital region.

Outside of being a popular news anchor, Julie volunteers with several children's charities that encourage kids to dream big and shoot for the stars!
